

INTERNET SAFETY GRADE LEVEL TARGETS

By the end of kindergarten, students should be able to:

- Explain the Internet and its common uses (Communication and Information)
- Explain the differences between public and private information, and how to protect private information and yourself.
- Understand some of the dangers of the Internet.

By the end of 1st grade, students should be able to:

- Explain the Internet and its common uses (Communication, Information and Advertising)
- Be able to search the Internet using a topic search.
- Explain the differences between public and private information, and how to protect private information and yourself.
- Understand some of the dangers of the Internet.

By the end of 2nd grade, students should be able to:

- Explain the Internet and its common uses (Communication, Information and Advertising)
- Be able to search the Internet using a topic search.
- Understand what computer viruses are and how they are spread.
- Explain the differences between public and private information, and how to protect private information and yourself.
- Understand some of the dangers of the Internet.

By the end of 3rd grade, students should be able to:

- Explain the Internet and its common uses (Communication, Information and Advertising)
- Be able to search the Internet using a topic and keyword search.
- Offer examples of online netiquette practices.
- Explain the differences between public and private information, and how to protect private information and yourself.
- Understand some of the dangers of the Internet.

By the end of 4th grade, students should be able to:

- Explain the Internet and its common uses (Communication, Information and Advertising)
- Be able to utilize the internet effectively.
 - Be able to search the Internet using a topic and keyword search.
 - Be able to evaluate the quality of web sites.
- Understand what computer viruses are and how they are spread.
- Explain the differences between public and private information, recognize the importance of password protection, and how to protect private information and yourself.
- Understand some of the dangers of the Internet.

By the end of 5th grade, students should be able to:

- Explain the Internet and its common uses (Communication, Information and Advertising)
- Be able to utilize the internet effectively.
 - Be able to search the Internet using a topic and keyword search.
 - Be able to evaluate the quality of web sites.
 - Understand what plagiarism, piracy and personal property are.
- Explain the differences between public and private information, how to protect private information and yourself.
- Manage an e-mail account and have good online netiquette.
- Understand a basic computer network and the division's Acceptable Use Policy.
- Understand some of the dangers of the Internet.

By the end of 6th grade, students should be able to:

- Explain the Internet and its common uses (Communication, Information and Advertising)
- Be able to utilize the internet effectively.
 - Be able to search the Internet using a topic and keyword search.
 - Be able to evaluate the quality of web sites and properly cite online sources.
 - Understand what plagiarism, piracy and personal property are.
- Explain the differences between public and private information, recognize the importance of password protection, and how to protect private information and yourself.
- Understand what computer viruses are and how they are spread.
- Understand some of the dangers of the Internet.

By the end of 7th grade, students should be able to:

- Explain the Internet and its common uses (Communication, Information and Advertising)
- Be able to utilize the internet effectively.
 - Be able to search the Internet using a topic and keyword search.
 - Be able to evaluate the quality of web sites and properly cite online sources.
 - Understand what plagiarism, piracy and personal property are.
- Explain the differences between public and private information, how to protect private information and yourself.
- Be able to practice online netiquette for e-mail, IM, chat & message boards.
- Understand some of the dangers of the Internet.
 - Recognize the importance of password protection.
 - Know how to safely handle e-mails and IMs received.
 - Know how to protect themselves from online bullies.

By the end of 8th grade, students should be able to:

- Explain the Internet and its common uses (Communication, Information and Advertising)
- Be able to utilize the internet effectively.
 - Be able to search the Internet using a topic and keyword search.
 - Be able to evaluate the quality of web sites and properly cite online sources.
- Explain the differences between public and private information, how to protect private information and yourself.
- Understand what plagiarism, piracy and personal property are.
- Understand some of the dangers of the Internet.
 - Recognize the importance of password protection
 - Know how to safely handle e-mails and IMs received.
 - Know how to protect themselves from online bullies.
 - Practice online netiquette for e-mail, IM, chat & message boards.